

A PUSH FOR CHANGE

Karema Brown (Pictured in pink mask)
TSTT Alumni, 5th Grade Teacher

"We are training high school and college students of color who will be leading classrooms and communities now and many more years to come. They will be the change agents for liberty and justice for all. Education is a Civil Right... Teachers of Color Matter!"

--
Dr. Betty Perkins
President & CEO of Today's Students Tomorrow's Teachers (TSTT)

Today's Students, Tomorrow's Teachers Stands With Black Lives Matter.

The greatest civil rights leaders have been some of our best students and teachers. Well-educated leaders can channel the frustrations of an unjust society into meaningful, coordinated action. Correcting the injustices in our society will require training a generation of educated leaders with a commitment to creating an equal society.

Today's Students, Tomorrow's Teachers has been active in creating teachers for the past 25 years; Below are the powerful voices of our young educators and leaders:

"I am not afraid to challenge or lead. I am and will continue to be a trailblazer; a champion for children."

—
Karema Brown
TSTT 5 Year Alumni Teacher,
5th Grade Teacher
North Rockland District, NY

"We as educators play a vital role in promoting inclusion and acceptance of the diverse students under our care."

—
Emerly A. Martinez
20 Year TSTT Educator,
Principal
Cornwall Central HS, NY

"The Black student population deserves to be recognized, acknowledged, and heard as valuable members of this society."

—
Teona Pagan
TSTT College student, Black Student Union Secretary
Baruch College, NY

"I attended a protest ... It felt great that there are other people that are angry just as I am...change is happening."

—
Miguel Aguilar
TSTT Rising Sophomore,
North Rockland HS, NY